

C3HE SPRING 2024 WEBINAR SERIES

COMMUNITY ENGAGED RESEARCH

REGISTER
HERE

GO.NCSU.EDU/C3HEWEBINAR

Join the Carolinas Collaborative on Climate, Health, and Equity (C3HE), a NOAA Climate Adaptation Partnership team, on the last Tuesday of each month this spring to learn about community engaged research in the Carolinas. Each webinar is free and open to the public, but does require registration.

Empowering Communities, Empowering Scholars: The Interplay of Students in Interdisciplinary Research

Tuesday, April 30, 2024, 11:00-12:00 PM EDT

Student Moderator: Emily Floess, PhD Student in Civil Engineering at North Carolina State University (NCSU) and Global One Health Fellow

Panelists:

- Dr. Andy Grieshop, Professor of Civil, Construction, & Environmental Engineering and Faculty Advisor of NCSU Engineers Without Borders;
- Dr. Carter Clinton, Assistant Professor of Biological Sciences at NCSU;
- Dr. Geoffrey Habron, Professor of Sustainability Science at Furman University;
- Dr. Louie Rivers, Senior Social Science Advisor in the Environmental Protection Agency's Office of Research & Development and Adjunct Professor of Forestry & Environmental Resources at NCSU

Triple Threat: Addressing Climate Justice, Food Insecurity & Health Disparity in African American Rural SC

Tuesday, May 28, 2024, 11:00-12:00 PM EDT

Coastal Health and Climate Risks: Managing Exposure to Harmful Algal Blooms & Other Threats

Tuesday, June 25, 2024, 11:00-12:00 PM EDT

Find more information at www.carolinascap.com

Carolinas Collaborative on Climate, Health, and Equity

A NOAA CAP/RISA team

Climate Adaptation
Partnerships
Formerly RISA